Ethan Williamson

I'm a 28 year old student, who decided to study programming and web development in 2019, which originally stemmed from my love of video games. Throughout the pandemic I continued studying and discovered I particularly enjoyed learning front end and CSS. I have already developed a few web pages, including my own portfolio website and am currently creating a website for The Willie & Mabel Morris Charitable Trust. I also have knowledge of HTML, Bootstrap, Git, and ongoing knowledge of JavaScript and I am keen to become a Junior Web Developer. Alongside all of this, I am passionate about basketball and volunteer as an assistant coach to the East Herts Royals Basketball team. I also volunteer at Zeo Church on the production team.

Throughout my past working career, I have grown in many transferable skills within customer service because of this I am able to work well in teams and work towards a target. I am capable of taking directions, as well as using my own initiative to get tasks done. I strive to produce work that is both visually pleasing and also fulfills its intended purpose. I thrive on giving good customer service, and achieving what has been required of me, going above and beyond.
